ASHLAND, OR - Headquartered in Southern Oregon, Plexis delivers enterprise core healthcare administration and claims management solutions to employer groups and healthcare payers throughout the United States and 15 countries, affecting over 70 million people worldwide.

"At Plexis, our guiding mission is to create positive and meaningful change within the healthcare industry," said Jorge Yant, founder, and CEO. Yant turned a bold idea into a Silicon Valley dream come true when he launched Plexis in 1996. From the beginning, he understood that half of the success of a healthcare company was the health and wellbeing of its employees. The standard of excellence across Plexis' products and services is a clear reflection of the passion and talent that permeates Plexis' culture.

Plexis' bold idea is to lower the cost of healthcare internationally, while also embracing the human side of the equation. They do so by dedicating significant resources to enhancing their claims management software, while at the same time developing integration solutions with technology leaders to ensure needs are met as quickly and efficiently as possible.
